

Deputies Wanted

Moran, State O. P. A. Director, Would Increase Rationing Boards

Edward C. Moran, Jr., State OPA director, has directed local rationing boards to designate deputies in all communities within their jurisdiction.

Pointing out that many people now had to drive miles to the city or town where their rationing board was located, Moran said this situation would be relieved with deputies located in each community.

He instructed the local boards to proceed "at once" to appoint these deputies and said they could be either a single individual or a board for each community. Like the members of the rationing boards they would be unpaid.

He suggested that the boards contact first selectmen and seek to have them serve as deputies or to recommend someone who could do the job.

Given A Reception

Rev. and Mrs. A. G. Hempstead Cordially Greeted By Parishioners

Rev. Alfred G. Hempstead and his family were honored with an informal reception at the Pratt Memorial Methodist Church last week.

A program was given, consisting of patriotic devotion, led by Ralph U. Clark, Mrs. Ruth Hoch and Miss Elsie Burbank sang vocal solos, accompanied by Mrs. Carol Jilison. Mrs. Louise Gregory gave a reading.

Following the program a social hour was held when the Hempsteads were introduced and greeted informally by the members of the parish. Rev. and Mrs. J. Charles MacDonald of the First Baptist Church; Dr. and Mrs. John Smith Lowe of the Universalist Church; Rev. and Mrs. Charles A. Marsteller of the Littlefield Memorial Church and Rev. and Mrs. Roy A. Welker of the Congregational Church were present.

Mrs. Edith Tweedie had charge of the decorations which were Summer flowers. Mrs. Lena Stevens was in charge of refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Minnie Cross, and Mrs. Vincle Clark, with Miss June Chatto, Miss Ruth Graves, Miss Harriette Clark, and Miss Helen Skedgell.

MORE BLOOD DONORS

The following additional donors to the Blood Bank are announced: Mrs. Lillian Comery, Mrs. Maynard Spear, Mrs. Earl Woodcock, Mrs. Richard Woodcock, Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Elliot and Mrs. Edward Elliot, Thomaston; Mrs. Gladys Heistad, Rockport; John McKenzie, Kennedy Crane, Harry Levensaler, and Elizabeth Knowlton, Rockland.

LEAGUE STARTS TONIGHT

With Pirates Playing In Thomaston—Pirates Lost In Bath

Rockland, Thomaston and Camden start a baseball league tonight when the Pirates meet the Thomaston locals at Thomaston. The three club seem about evenly matched and some good ball games should be had.

Thomaston's opening lineup will probably be: Davis lf, Robinson 2b, Robbins 1b, Ives 3b, Watts c, Spear cf, Fales lf, Jenkins ss, Esancy, p. The Pirates will start with Stevens 2b, Thompson c, Dowling ss, R. Ellis lf, Simpson of, Starr 1b, Marsh 3b, Barnard rf, C. Ellis p.

Camden journeys to Thomaston Thursday night for its initial game with the following team: Dougherty lf, Heal 2b, Stevens rf, Richards cf, Wright 1b, McGrath ss, Cucinello 3b, Wellman c, Whittier, Merchant or Richards, p.

The Camden team play the Prison team on the Fourth at Thomaston and the Pirates are angling for a good attraction at Community Park.

Bath 9, Pirates 3

At Bath Sunday the strong Bath Iron Works defeated the Pirates by a 9 to 3 score, but was held for seven innings to a 3 to 3 tie by a much under-rated Rockland team.

In spite of Bath's star-studded lineup of college and High School stars the Pirates outplayed it for seven innings and fought all the way. Maznicki and Connolly, Boston College stars, who received so much publicity, got a single between them.

The Pirates scored first in the fourth on Thompson's hit, an infield out and Dowling's single.

Giroux, who reached first on a bad peg that bounded over Starr's head at first, was caught flat-footed and run down when "Bun" Thompson, who backed up "Pooch" made the first of his many starring plays on second.

Bath scored three times in the fifth on a single by Parent, a hit batsman, a single, and when Tommy went back to the backstop for Giroux's foul tip, the ball got through Drake who covered the plate, allowing two of the runs to score.

Raymie Ellis walked to start off the Pirates' seventh, followed by Simpson's long triple, and Glover scored Leo with a single to left, to tie up the score three all.

Connolly led off in Bath's eighth with a single that dropped just out of reach of Stevens in right field. Willette followed with a single and Work walked. Parent drove in three runs on a double that landed almost where Connolly's hit did for a double, this followed by two singles broke up a good ball game.

Stevens, Dowling and Thompson starred in the field for Rockland, and Kinney, who pitched a good game, led the hitters with three out of four. The score:

WOMEN ON THE FARM

Recent surveys show that 14 percent of the labor on Maine farms is being performed by women, exceeding all of the other New England States save Connecticut which employs 15 percent. Feminine agricultural labor is by no means a novelty in the Pine Tree State. From time immemorial women have taken their places beside the male of the species in the cultivation of Maine farms, whether it be in the tilling of the gardens, the harvesting of the hay crop, or any other outdoor feature of farm life. Women have done this thing down through the years—from patriotic motives, when patriotism was required; from economical motives when the farmer was short of male help, and, be it said truthfully, from the pure love of working in the open and of watching nature unfold. War or peace, be it ever so.

WHAT WILL WINSTON SAY

Between traipsing back and forth between England and the White House, and answering his angry critics in the British Parliament, it would seem as though Winston Churchill would have very little time left for playing golf this Summer. Perhaps Winston doesn't play golf, but he has shown a marked aptitude for meeting his critics half way, and his own newspaper experience has taught him what to do and say to the overheated newspaper editors who have been camping on his trail. We don't know much about the debacle in Libya, where the battle has shifted as often as the desert sands, but we will be highly interested to see what Churchill has to say about it.

CANNING TIPS ARE COMING

Raising and preserving as much food as possible should be the aim of most families this year. Demonstrations on canning fruits and vegetables, and drying and salting, will be given in one or more sections of every town during July by a home demonstration agent. Everyone is urged to attend and get the recent information including canning with less sugar. This newspaper will carry further announcements. Meantime ask the newly appointed neighborhood leaders about it.

DEXTER GAZETTE'S DARE

We are in receipt of a letter in this morning's mail which starts off as follows: "We wonder if you have the intestinal fortitude to come out and denounce _____" and winds up with the statement "I'll bet a dollar you don't dare print this in your Gazette this week."

If the writer of the communication had the "intestinal fortitude" to sign his or her name, not necessarily for publication, but as an evidence of good faith, we would know whom to hold responsible in case of a libel suit ensuing. We'll bet a dollar he doesn't dare to make himself known.—Eastern Gazette.

We shall watch with interest the succeeding issues of the Eastern Gazette to see if its editor's dare is accepted. His contemporaries in Maine had similar experiences—many of them, and they will all say: Bully for the Dexter Gazette's editor!

MR. GANDHI'S CHALLENGE

In a news agency dispatch from Wardha, India, Mohandas K. Gandhi is credited with a variety of remarks which can serve two purposes only. One is the comfort of the Japanese and their Axis friends; the other is the recovery of a conspicuous place in the news for Mr. Gandhi. He is quoted as saying that if the British were to grant India freedom, the Indians would do big but undefined things for the United Nations and there would be no objection raised to the Anglo-American use of India as a military base; but that he, the Gandhi, will launch a movement, without waiting for the war's end, if independence is not granted, which "will be felt by the whole world." He spoke bitterly of the British use of an enslaved India to support China and almost contemptuously of the influence of American public opinion upon Anglo-Indian relations. In all this there is a very clear threat that, if independence on India's own terms is not shortly granted by Great Britain, Mr. Gandhi will make serious trouble for the British in India.

Whether Mr. Gandhi is dabbling in treason to the British Empire or to his native India in making such a threat is scarcely the American peoples' business; but if he is dabbling in treason to civilization that is very much the business of every enemy of the Axis combination. How seriously he should be taken depends very much upon his capacity for making trouble; which is something that the United Nations should learn very shortly from Mr. Gandhi's Nationalist colleagues, who cannot remain silent when their alleged spiritual leader defies not only British but also Chinese and American opinion, clearly implying that his India will dispense with their good will if they do not make "face" for him by helping him force Britain's hand.—Christian Science Monitor.

VULNERABLE NAVY SHIPS

Which is obsolete, the battleship or the aircraft carrier or both? The House Naval Affairs Committee is out for the building of twenty to thirty carriers, and here is Major Alexander P. de Seversky, champion of planes, emphasizing the extreme vulnerability of the aircraft carrier and denouncing the obsolescence of the Washington authorities in planning to build them.

There are arguments both ways and decisions have to be reached in the greatest war emergency ever known. Germany tried to build an unsinkable battleship and failed. Torpedoes delivered the final strokes that put down the Bismarck, but the destruction is credited mainly to air bombers. We have lost the Lexington, and other nations also mourn carriers. Major de Seversky is all for land-based air power as the greatest factor in sight. He discounts the value of carriers when exposed to attacks from land planes.

When the Major admits that "there are still important sea spaces where the carrier is essential," he weakens his arguments. We must, as he says, transport most of our supplies and men by surface craft and "ship-based planes offer necessary protection." That being true, are the Washington experts so dumb in making plans for carriers? We know that it will take a long time to get them, but we do not know when we shall be able to have those larger, more powerful, far-ranging planes which Major de Seversky foresees.

We did not relegate battleships and heavy cruisers to a subordinate place until we had convincing proof of the increased value of carriers. Presumably we shall not subordinate carriers to land-based machines until we have had stronger evidence than at present that the carriers are obsolescent.—Boston Herald.

The Black Cat

(By The Roving Reporter)

An 8-year-old Pittsfield boy picked 159 four-leaf clovers in half an hour the other day. The four-leaf element is not so remarkable as the fact that a boy of that age could stay that long in a single undertaking.

A Thomaston woman looking over a file of papers of the year 1889 frequently came across the phrase "No rosin." She wants to know what that meant. Perhaps 50 years from now somebody will come across the phrase "no soap," or "no dice" and will wonder what they meant. Most all of us know the meaning they are supposed to convey, but very few can tell anything about the derivation.—Bridgton News.

The outdoor weenie roast, the backyard barbecue, and the beach fire are out for the duration local civilian defense officials remind us. "The dim-out regulations go into effect one hour after sunset," says our air raid warden. Sings, story-telling, and strawdies are among the outdoor pastimes in which groups can join after dark without adding to that sky glow which helps the enemy sink our ships. Picnickers are already learning that a darkened circle beneath the stars is just as conducive to sociability as the blazing fire that shoots sparks into the skies. So don't take chances with any sort of outdoor light and remember the Army's wise admonition: "If in doubt, put it out."

If you don't think it is important to dry out your stove and furnace pipes this Summer, the timely suggestion issued by Fire Chief Van E. Russell should be sufficient to arouse you to that need. Chief Russell informs me that it will be well-nigh impossible to buy galvanized or sheet iron next Fall and that ranges and furnaces do not run without pipes.

The rationing of clothing has extended to Summer street wear, if one is to judge from the scanty attire one sees on every hand.

A Captain Now

"Bob" Robinson, Son of Thomaston Man Receives a Promotion

Announcement has been made by the War Department in Washington of the promotion of First Lieutenant Robert N. Robinson of Bar Harbor to the grade of Captain of the Army Air Forces. Captain Robinson was ordered into active service last August, and since that time has been stationed at the Army Air base at Fort Devens, Massachusetts. He is also Commanding officer of the Air base squadron.

While in Bar Harbor Captain Robinson, was manager of the Mount Desert Island Dairies on Main street. He was very active in the National Guard, and a popular member of the younger set.

He married Miss Grace Mayo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Liston Mayo, several years ago, and they have two children.—Bar Harbor Record

Captain Robinson is a son of Thomas N. Robinson of Thomaston, who has every reason to be proud of his son.

Book Review

(By K. S. F.)

One Man's Meat, by E. B. White. Published by Harper and Brothers, New York.

In this extremely fascinating treatment of individualism, we are held closely related to the momentous and important conditions of all time in life's securities. The world is face to face with brutal and fiendish hate. This author makes persons who think, think twice as clearly and deeply on any subject at hand. He gives his own deep human warmth of values to whatever he writes. If compassionate or amusing, one feels the sincerity of his deductions.

"One thing about the war," remarks E. B. White in a foreword to One Man's Meat, "it gives a man a feeling of guilt every time he finds himself doing some habitual or comfortable thing, like eating a good meal or getting out a book in the library. A book concerned with the routine pleasures and troubles of a peaceable life is almost embarrassing."

And here we have a well organized peaceable bit of life in the midst of terror and bloodshed from one who still looks forward with hope for liberty and justice for all, and the obliteration of the Hitler cult from this great world progress. And from a man who has spent years on the Maine Coast absorbing the sweet vitality and healthy vigor of mind needed to conquer the world from sin and hate. A man who knows his world and loves it.

For Young Couple

A Notable Reception Given At Owl's Head Town Hall For McConchie

One of the largest and happiest parties ever held in this vicinity was that given Saturday night at Owl's Head Town Hall, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Arnold McConchie. About 150 relatives and friends eagerly awaited this popular young couple, as they stepped through the door and were greeted by the sweet strains of the wedding march played by Albert Marsh on his violin with Mrs. Alton Wooster accompanist.

After an informal reception square and round dances were enjoyed by young and old conducted by David Mann.

At 10:30 an additional surprise was afforded by the welcome appearance of the groom's brother, Irving of Springfield, College.

During intermission punch, assorted cakes, sandwiches, and ice cream were served. A special treat was that of two large wedding cakes. Mr. James Pease was in charge of the punch bowl.

The hall was beautifully decorated in pink and white with many bouquets of fragrant pink roses, and pink and white peonies. Those responsible for the decorations were Madeline McConchie, Ruth Witham and Kay Blackington.

The happy couple were the recipients of many gifts, including a sum of money.

When the party finally broke up, all were loud in their praises of Mrs. Athertine Pease and Mrs. Eleanor Prefette, the originators of this memorable occasion.

Civilian Defense

The Red Cross War Fund subscription of the Knox County Chapter began on Dec. 12, 1941. A goal of $12,500 was set for us by the National Committee. We collected $13,971.02 which is an over-subscription of $1,471.02. Of this amount 85 percent was forwarded to the National War Fund, a total of $11,875.37.

There is urgent need of more people to do surgical dressings. The National Surgical Dressing room at the Community Building is open each Tuesday night from 7 to 9 and each Wednesday afternoon from 2 to 4. Anyone who will do this work is asked to report at the room or for more information get in touch with Mrs. Charles H. Berry, chairman.

A refresher course in Nutrition will be held at the University of Maine the week of July 13 and anyone interested should communicate with Mrs. Helen Wentworth, Hope, county chairman. This course is primarily for those who have had some training in Home Economics and are desirous of teaching the Red Cross nutrition and canteen courses.

Which Means Telegrams To Members of the Expeditionary Force

Local people today began sending the new "E.F.M." (Expeditionary Force Messages) to members of the United States armed forces stationed in many foreign countries. It was announced by B. A. Gardner, manager of the Western Union.

Special "E.F.M." blanks, listing the 103 fixed-text phrases provided for the service, have been received at local Western Union offices where the outboard service was started this morning. Members of the armed forces abroad began sending "E.F.M." messages to their homes May 20 when in-bound service was inaugurated. In the "E.F.M." cablegram, a contribution by the communications industry to the nation's war morale, the sender may incorporate in one message, costing 60 cents (plus six cents government tax), as many as three of the 103 fixed-text phrases. These phrases relate to correspondence, greetings, health, promotion, money, congratulations and other subjects.

Like President Roosevelt's use of the fictitious land of Shangri-La to conceal the base from which American planes bombed Japan, the War Department has provided all Western Union offices with charts identifying foreign countries only as arbitrary code words. Relatives and friends sending these messages will not know in what countries the cablegrams are to be delivered.

Outbound "E.F.M." messages will be addressed to the troops by rank, name, identifying serial number and Army Post Office number. Families of members of the armed forces have this information. The telegraph company will use the Army Post Office numbers in selecting the proper code address, but will not know what countries the code words indicate. The telegraph company will transmit the messages to the country of destination, where the Army Post Office will make delivery.

A Canning Center

To Be Held In Mid-July At High School Building—Three Details

A community canning center will be held about the middle of July at the High School building, the exact date to be announced. The primary purposes are to conserve all food possible; to can as much as possible of the surplus food for community use; to learn latest approved methods of canning so as to retain the largest possible food value; also to learn methods of krautering, drying and salting; to enable communities to meet the requirements of the Red Cross, Agricultural Marketing Administration, Work Projects Administration, and State Nutrition Committee as to canned foods which may be used for community emergency feeding or school lunches. The above-named groups can use only foods canned by specific approved methods set up by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and canned under supervision.

The community canning center at the High School will care for this area. Knox County will contribute food and volunteer workers and keep the canned food on the basis explained later. Major emphasis will be placed upon surplus and donated foods for community use (school lunches, canteen; emergency feeding and welfare purposes). The percentage of food canned for personal use will be dependent on facilities available.

When a person wishes to do her own canning at the center she will be expected to leave one can for each three cans or jars which she takes home. This is fair return for the use of the canning equipment, fuel and instruction. No food will be canned for private use without a proportional labor contribution.

Foods donated entirely as surplus food and brought to the center will be distributed on a 50-50 basis to the area center which contributes the volunteer workers and the town contributing food. If a town other than the area center contributes volunteer workers as well as food, three cans will be returned that town and one can kept at the area center.

Foods brought by the individuals from their own gardens will be so marked and canned at one time that people may be assured they will receive their own product. Canning will be done by jobs on a rotating basis and carefully marked as to the source. Careful records will be kept as to quantity of food received and canned, amount for community use, and amount going back into the homes and towns.

Cans will be available for community use at approximately 2 cents per can. This is according to a ruling of the office of Price Administration. Cans for private use can be bought through Montgomery Ward Co. at approximately 3 cents per can. It is hoped to have some available at these prices in the centers. Community groups or agencies should arrange to pay for all cans in community use. Families may provide their own glass jars if they prefer. However glass jars will not

Wonderful Hunting Season

Is Predicted For Coming Fall By Warden Davis—Hunters Will Be Scarce

Warden "Bill" Davis of Union appeared at The Courier-Gazette office the other day to express his disapproval of the damage being wrought by dogs which are allowed to run wild in the woods, killing young pheasants, baby deer and rabbits.

He told of the dog which came down North Main street, Rockland, with half of a newly born fawn in his mouth, and Charles Lunden of Mt. Pleasant witnessed a similar spectacle.

"I am asking dog owners to please take warning," said Warden Davis, "and if that warning is not heeded it will be necessary to take other steps which will be just too bad for the offending canines."

Warden Davis is much attached to the two young fawns which are on his premises—one picked up beside a road in Camden and the other rescued from a dog on the West Meadow road.

He was accepted for community use to be left at the center.

There will be a full-time paid director provided by the State for each center, and expenditures for fuel necessary for canning will be paid from State funds. Local school administrators will provide satisfactory working quarters and arrange for janitor service when needed.

The distribution of community canned products left in a town shall be the responsibility of a local committee made up of the school administrator or his appointed representative, a civilian defense representative, the teachers or persons in charge of school lunches in public and parochial schools and a person representing the welfare interest of the town. School lunches shall have first preference, then emergency feeding groups and welfare groups. In cases of major disaster all food would be so allocated if needed.

The local committee is working hard to secure volunteers who will give from two hours to one-half day to this work.

Anyone interested in this canning center either for volunteer work or to donate surplus material is asked to call the Placement Bureau at the Community Building and register in order that a list be compiled to be used when the date arrives.

Unidentified Body

May Have Been That Of A Lost Cherryfield Citizen

Wollaston, Mass., June 27. Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—I wonder if you would help me in regard to an article in your paper some time ago—I think about two months ago—telling of the body of a man picked up in the water near Metinic Island, brought to Rockland and not identified.

I am working with a man by the name of Wooster who lost a brother in Cherryfield last March. You may remember reading about the matter. The main street was flooded and he was trying to save some of his garage material and in some way was swept overboard and under the ice and his body had not been found since that time. His wife and children are now living in Cherryfield. In speaking with Mr. Wooster, with whom I work, the thought came to me that it might be possible that the man who was found,

The Union warden foresees a wonderful hunting season this Fall, but unfortunately most of the county's young men will be under arms for quite a different purpose.

He says that pheasants are over-running the farming districts, and creating considerable amount of havoc in the gardens. Young partridges are very numerous, but the recent heavy storm doubtless drowned many of them.

Many does are seen in the early morning coming out to the edge of the country highways and one big doe, about ready to drop twins was struck by a car in Rockport and killed.

A big moose is reported to be summering at The Bog, and a large bull moose was recently seen at Pleasantville.

Few fishermen are abroad, as most of them have entered the armed service or are engaged in defense work.

The I. S. O. Hostesses

Who Will Be In Charge At Yacht Club The Balance Of Week

Acting as hostesses for the Interdenominational Service Organization at the Rockland Yacht Club this week are the following women: Wednesday—1 to 4, Mrs. George B. Wood and Mrs. Donald Perry; 4 to 7, Mrs. E. E. Stoddard and Mrs. Isidor Gordon; 7 to 10, Mrs. Alfred Leventhal and Miss Nellie Button.

Thursday—1 to 4, Mrs. Sydney Segal and Miss Virginia Chatto; 4 to 7, Mrs. Juliet Lundin and Mrs. Laroy Brown; 7 to 10, Mrs. A. P. Richardson and Miss Katherine Veazie.

Friday—1 to 4, Mrs. Brooks Gregory and Mrs. Ernest Keywood; 4 to 7, Mrs. Dana Newman and Mrs. Esther Howard; 7 to 10, Mrs. Walter Barstow and Mrs. Frances Lowe.

Saturday—1 to 4, Miss Pearl Borgerson and Mrs. Charles Emery; 4 to 7, Miss Gladys Biethen and Mrs. Keryn ap Rice; 7 to 10, Mrs. Ralph Wiggin and Mrs. Madeline Bird.

The chairmen of all department heads for I.S.O. committees will hold a meeting Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Community Building. The Interdenominational Service Organization expresses its sincere appreciation for the generosity of the many individuals, the several churches, service clubs, and other groups, through whose splendid co-operation so much has been accomplished in so very short a time to make the recreation room comfortable and effective. If a complete list of donors can be compiled, it will be published in this paper at a later date.

and as I remember was not identified, may have been Mr. Wooster's brother.

I will appreciate anything which you may care to send me in this matter. H. M. Crockett, 51 West Elm avenue.

"V. Mail" Letters

Rockland To Have Them Soon—Postmaster Connellan Explains

Mail to and from our Armed Forces overseas has become a problem of the Post Office, War, and Navy Departments. Shipping facilities have become so crowded with vital war materials that mail sack space aboard our ships, airplanes, and surface transportation facilities must be drastically cut. According to Postmaster James Connellan, a new service, known as "V Mail," has been developed to make available more space for the transportation of vital war supplies.

The "V-Mail" letter-sheet is a combination letter and envelope with instructions for its use enclosed. It is so arranged as to allow a large message space and additional space for sender's name and address, the address of the person for whom it is intended, and the military censor's clearance. Nothing may be enclosed in the letters. Sent to the armed forces, these letters will require the regular postage. Sent from a member of the forces, no postage will be necessary.

As an example of the saving of weight and space which the use of "V-Mail" affords, a dispatch of 150,000 ordinary one-sheet letters will weigh 275 pounds and requires the space and use of 37 mail sacks, whereas a dispatch of 150,000 "V-Mail" letters will weigh only 1500 pounds and require but 22 mail sacks. This will leave shipping facilities available for essential military material of 1075 pounds and space for 15 sacks of mail.

To further expedite the mail to and from overseas where large volumes and great distances are involved, a photographic micro-filming facility has been established. "V-Mail" stations are set up under military control to photograph the "V-Mail" letters on 16 millimeter film. This operation effects a reduction of approximately 3.15 percent of their original volume and weight. The 150,000 "V-Mail" letters after this process will weigh 45 pounds and will occupy space for one sack of mail.

The original negative will be retained by the military until it is certain that the film has reached its destination. If it fails to arrive, the letter is refiled and re-dispatched.

At the destination, the receiving "V-Mail" station reproduces and enlarges the individual film messages, each in a specially designated "V-Mail" envelope, and makes individual delivery to the addressee in the usual manner. The reproduction is approximately 45x4 inches of the actual message as written by the sender.

Small stocks are being distributed to the 44,000 United States post-offices as rapidly as possible. So far, the only postoffice in Maine with a supply on hand is in Portland. Postmaster Connellan says that Rockland will soon have its supply and he believes that it will not be long before several department and stationery stores in the city will be stocked. As for the boys in the service, it is understood that they will be provided with these "V-Mail" letter sheets.

MOTORISTS NEEDED

To Make Unique Gas Saving Test

Every patriotic Maine citizen interested in saving gasoline for Victory will welcome the achievement of an American inventor. Already thousands of car owners are using his invention and they report gas savings of up to 30% as well as more power, quicker pickup and faster acceleration. The device, called the Vacu-matic, operates on the super-charge principle. It is entirely automatic and allows the motor to breathe. The manufacturer, the Vacu-matic Carburetor Co., 7617-2649 W. State street, Wauwatosa, Wisconsin, are offering a Vacu-matic free to those who will test it on their own cars and help introduce it to others. Write them today!—adv.

July Blue Stamps

List Is Announced By Supervisor Quinn—Fresh Fruits Added

Blue Stamp Foods available in the Maine area during the July period are announced by Charles M. Quinn, Area Supervisor for the A.M.A.

Fresh peaches, fresh plums, and fresh apples have been added to the list. These, together with oranges, all fresh vegetables including Irish and sweet potatoes and the staple foods continued on the list, will give participants a wide variety from which to select the food they require.

Dried prunes and fresh grapefruit are the only two commodities removed from the July list. Dried prunes are being acquired for use largely by our armed forces and the season of heavy marketing of grapefruit is drawing to a close.

This list, which includes all fresh vegetables, will enable stamp customers to buy plenty of Victory Foods Specials as they are announced throughout July. Food stamp shoppers are urged to watch for these Victory Food Specials, and to do their bit by helping to purchase seasonal surpluses when they hit peak production, thereby easing transportation bottlenecks, and allowing farmers to continue maximum food production.

The complete list of Blue Stamp Foods issued by the Agricultural Marketing Administration for July 1 through July 31 in all stamp program areas is as follows: fresh peaches, plums, apples, and oranges, all fresh vegetables including Irish and sweet potatoes, shell eggs, butter, corn meal, hominy (corn) grits, dry edible beans, wheat flour, enriched wheat flour, self-rising flour, enriched self-rising flour, and whole wheat (graham) flour.

"Farmers," Mr. Quinn said, "are working to produce abundant quantities of all the food needed by the United Nations. The Food Stamp Program helps to assure them, particularly in seasons of heavy marketing, of a fair return for the efforts they are making. At the same time the program adds many nutritious foods to the diets of public-aid families."

A School Reunion

Maple Grange Hall Scene of Happy Gathering—Six Teachers There

After an existence of a quarter of a century without lapse the annual meeting of "The School Reunion," composed of four adjacent districts under the old district system—the Corner, Kuhn Flanders and Bogues—met at Maple Grange hall last Wednesday, with one of the largest attendances in its history.

The morning was spent in social chat and when noon hour came all sat down to one of the most sumptuous feasts the North Waldoboro dames could prepare.

Dinner over, the crowd repaired to the hall where the meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Belle Sprague, and the following program put over:

Singing, America; prayer, Chester Duncan; Memorial service, beautifully and solemnly rendered; but one member has died since the meeting a year ago, Merrill Orff; The Juvenile Grange Lecturer, William R. Miller put on two tableaux, Betsy Ross Sewing the Flag, with a poem read by "Bill," "The Banner Betsy Made," the Statue of Liberty, beautifully illustrated by Miss Ruth Burnheimer, with Miss Louise Teague at the piano playing the Star Spangled Banner; a quartet of horns played by Chester Duncan, William R. Miller, Misses Madalyn and Elizabeth Miller rendered several fine selections. Remarks were made by W. R. Walter, closing with reciting one of Thomas Moore's poems.

There were six teachers present

Day Is Commander

Winner of American Legion Contest At Old Orchard—Other Matters

Walter T. Day, chain hotel owner, was elected commander of the American Legion at its State convention in Old Orchard Saturday. One of the new vice presidents is Jessen C. Thomas of Damariscotta (formerly of Camden). Austin P. Brewer of Rockland was elected sergeant at arms. Hector G. Staples of Rockland, past department commander, was elected a delegate to the National Convention.

But one of the 22 resolutions adopted was discussed, that recommending to the national convention that veterans of the present war be admitted to membership in the Legion. This was passed after a second reading.

Other resolutions included recommending the continuance of the Veterans' Employment Service and thanking Francis J. McDonnell for his efforts in placing veterans in employment.

Advocating modification of the law relating to compensation for widows of World War veterans to the end that the proceeds realized from life insurance shall not be considered as income.

Increasing the number of beds for mental patients at the Togus Veterans' Facility.

Empowering the Legislative Committee to submit an act to the Legislature to the end that all dependents of veterans of the present war be entitled to privileges under the laws of Maine as are now accorded veterans of the last war.

Gen. Lowe in his address urged "the complete elimination of Germany and Japan."

"I hope we are plenty tough when we do it, and not too ethical," he declared. Lashing out at the critics of other nations fighting with the United States, he said that "we have too many curbstone critics and Monday morning quarterbacks. We have fumbled the ball in this war, but we have always been a late-season team, and no one has ever scored as much in the second half as we do. We won't fumble this time in the second half, either."

Gov. Sewall, who is a World War ace, stressed the need of intense activity on the home front. Horace A. Hildreth of Cumberland Center, State U.S.O. chairman, told the delegates of the need for their aid in the cause and Clifford A. Somerville of Portland, executive secretary of the Maine Salvage Committee, outlined the progress of the salvage drive in the State. Paul Frederick Slocum of Standish, new chief de gare of the Forty and Eight, pledged the support of that organization to the Legion.

who had taught in the four mentioned districts.

It was unanimously voted to meet again the last Wednesday in June next year, and the same officers, continue to serve. And all went to their homes feeling it had been one of the best days they ever spent.

Old Citizen Dies

Frank D. Alden of Old County road, believed to be the oldest man in Rockland, died yesterday two days after passing his 94th birthday. Private funeral services will be held at his late residence Wednesday at 2 p. m. Obituary mention deferred.

The Rotary Club

Annual Reports Furnish Much Satisfaction—It's "President Maurice" Now

It was moving-up day and annual meeting day with the Rockland Rotary Club last Friday. Retiring President Tom Stone, after thanking the club for fine support, in a year of outstanding achievements turned the gavel over to the new president, Maurice Lovejoy. In taking over his new duties, Maurice, in behalf of the club, presented Tom with a past president's pin.

The rest of the meeting was devoted to hearing reports from the chairman of each standing committee. These reports indicated a year of growth and progress. The average attendance for the year has been 92.85 percent. Eleven members of the club have an attendance record for the year of 103 percent. The community service committee reported several projects of note including aid in the Red Cross drive and District Nursing. Glasses have been provided for children with defective eyesight. The major item in community service was the equipping of a modern electric kitchen for use in serving hot lunches to school children.

The membership of the club has held its own. Death has taken two members. Two new members have been received. Visiting Rotarians Friday were J. A. Pitman and G. C. Lang of Belfast.

James Thomas, a graduate of Rockland High School this June, went to Portland and passed his machinist's helper's examination. His next hurdles are the filers' tests to be given in Boston this week.

A concert by the Rockland City Band will be given tomorrow night at the Public Landing. It will begin at 7 o'clock so as not to conflict with the dim-out regulations.

Leslie Somers has recently been transferred to Nyack, N. Y. as manager of the J. J. Newberry Company store.

Witham's Lobster Pound between Glen Cove and Rockport opens tomorrow. The proprietors, before attempting to open a new season gave consideration to the fire and gas shortage and finally conclude to take a chance. The fact that the establishment is universally popular, and is located on the main bus line, gives promise of a season which may be beyond the owners' expectations.

Important meeting of Women's Auxiliary of St. Peter's Church will be Thursday night at 7:30 in the Undercroft. Members of the vestry will be luncheon guests at this meeting.

Leo and Jimmy Connellan plan to spend the month of July at Camp Gregory, Crystal Lake, Gray.

From far off Dutch Harbor comes word to Mr. and Mrs. Archie Rackliff of South Thomaston that their son Maurice, a radio-man, 1st class, is well and happy.

Clarence W. Munsey, veteran employee of A. C. McLoon & Co., has joined the growing colony of local men employed in the Portland Shipyards.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin S. Graves have received word that their son Harry W. (Bud) has been promoted to sergeant in the U. S. Army Air Corps. He enlisted in October 1940 and graduated from the ground school at La Guardia Field, N. Y., in July 1941. He has since been stationed on the Pacific coast.

The interesting announcement was made yesterday that Empire Theatre is to be torn down. The work will begin within a few weeks, and after the lot is cleared it will be used for auto parking space. The building has long been unsightly, and its removal will lessen the fire hazard in that locality.

Well known in this city through many Summer time visits with his aunt, Mrs. Minnie Rogers, Amesbury street, was Stuart Davis of Winter Harbor, inducted into the service May 19, who died June 8 at Camp Wheeler, Georgia, of heart prostration. Davis was a Bowdoin graduate, Phi Beta Kappa, and had been employed by the Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. prior to entering the service. His grandfather was long a Rockland ship owner and operator and the young man gained many friends here.

Harry Albert Morse

Harry A. Morse died Friday morning at the home of his sister, Mrs. Nicholas Anzalone on Dunn street.

Mr. Morse was born in this town, on the Morse farm, being of the fifth generation of Morses to live there. He was the son of George S. and Laurilla Marshall Morse. He received his education in the local public schools and while still only a boy, became a machinist in the employ of Morse, Trussell and McLoon in Rockland, of which firm his uncle, the late Merrill Morse was the head.

Later he entered the employ of the Maine Central Railroad which he served for many years, first as a fireman and later an engineer. For over 30 years he made his home in Portland. Mr. Morse retired a few years ago on account of ill health.

His death came as the end of a long period of suffering from a disease of the heart. He was tenderly cared for by his sister and her husband.

Mr. Morse was an upright genial man of keen intelligence and with knowledge on a wide range of subjects. He was a writer of ability and contributed many articles to various Maine newspapers. He was long a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Engineers.

He is survived by his sister, Mrs. Anzalone; a brother, Alton Morse, vice president of the Wakami Lumber Co. at Sultan, Ont.; and by a nephew, Wesley A. Morse, a student in a Toronto College.

The funeral took place at the Davis funeral home and at the Thomaston cemetery, Rev. F. E. O. Kenyon, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church of Rockland officiating.

The bearers were Earl Woodcock and George Davis of Thomaston, Joseph Hamlin and Anson Gidden of Rockland, the latter two being former railroad associates.

DEATH OF COL. ROBBINS

Took Place Friday In New Orleans Hospital—Burial In Baltimore

Col. E. A. Robbins, president-treasurer of the Camden Publishing Company and editor of The Camden Herald died Friday at Truro Hospital, New Orleans. He had passed the winter in the South for his health and had been visiting in Hammond, La., when the ill turn occurred. For several months he had been suffering from a severe heart ailment.

Funeral services were held in Hammond, La., and a committal service will be conducted this afternoon in Baltimore.

Col. Ernest A. Robbins, Jr., became a resident of Camden shortly after the close of the World War, in which he had been an active participant.

Col. Robbins was born in Baltimore June 29, 1877, and while a Southerner by birth inherited a natural fondness for New England by virtue of the fact that his ancestry is traced back to John Robbins who came to Boston in 1630, settling later in Westfield, Ct., with the Roger Williams colonists.

His father was engaged in the iron and steel business.

Ernest, attended the public and private schools of Baltimore and made his home in the Oriole city until he was 21 years of age. While on a pleasure tour through England he was induced by friends to engage in the insurance business in London. He followed this career about five years and returning to Baltimore as in the general insurance business from 1902 to 1916.

Having served meantime in the Maryland National Guard he went in 1916 to the Mexican border, where he became adjutant of the Maryland brigade, with the rank of Major. The brigade was on patrol duty during the period of "watchful waiting."

On his return to Maryland he was almost immediately called into service for the World War, as major and adjutant of the 58th Infantry Brigade, which was assigned to the 29th Division Overseas, after spending 11 months in an Alabama training camp.

Major Robbins was sent to the Army School of the Line in Langres, France and after an intensive course there was appointed Adjutant General of the 7th Army Corps, stationed in the Vosges Mountains. Later he was transferred to the 6th Army Corps and after the battle of the Argonne was again transferred to the 4th Army Corps and sent into Germany with the Army of Occupation.

Five months later the 4th Army Corps was relieved from duty in the Rhineland, and returned to this country, but Major Robbins' activities were not destined to terminate just then. He was appointed a member of the General Court Martial, with headquarters in the District of Paris. The first anniversary of the signing of the Armistice had nearly rolled around before he again saw his native shores, and bearing the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel he received his discharge from the service.

His Overseas duties covered a period of 16 months. The business which he had built up in Baltimore had been virtually sacrificed while he was serving Uncle Sam on the Mexican border and in Europe.

Feeling also the necessity of rest and recuperation he came to Camden which he liked so well that he became a citizen and taxpayer.

Buying the Camden Herald some years ago he became much interested in the work, producing an alert weekly newspaper which he had devoted to the welfare of his adopted town. He joined actively in the affairs of the Republican party and enjoyed several favors from the State administration.

Col. Robbins was especially fond of travel, and a few years ago attained the climax of his wishes when he made a trip around the world, details of which were set forth in a book which has enjoyed a wide circulation among his friends.

Col. Robbins was a member of Lula Libby, Mrs. Grace Leavitt, Mrs. Nettie Copeland, Mrs. Doris Maxcy, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Overlock, Mrs. Annie Rogers and daughter Donna, Mrs. Margaret Spear, Miss Natalie Spear and Miss Belle Barrett attended the Simmons-Meservey wedding Sunday at the Warren Baptist Church.

Mrs. Olive Fales attended the Legion Convention at Old Orchard as a delegate from Williams-Brazier Auxiliary. Forrest Newbert and Mrs. Bertha Russell also attended Sunday.

The late Col. E. A. Robbins mandery, K. T. Kora Temple (Mystic Shrine) the Camden Business Men's Association and Camden Business Men's Club.

Col. Robbins is survived by his wife, Cora (Carter) Robbins; a stepson, Edward Hamilton Hall of Camden; a step-daughter, Mrs. J. Riker Proctor of Lincolnville; four step-children, Mattina, and James Proctor, Mary Borden Hall and William Douglas Hall; and a cousin, Mary Bussey of Frederick, Md.

The benefit show of the Red Cross Motor Corps held at Camden Theatre Friday proved a success. A fine movie, "The Chocolate Soldier" was an inducement as well as the vaudeville show which followed. Betty Plaisted thanked the audience for co-operating as they did and presented a program including a short concert by part of the High School Band; accordion solos by Minnie Tranquillo, who is eight years old. Vocal solos by Mary Louise Meserve and Donald Welt; cowboy numbers by Arthur Crockett; baton twirling by Beverly Grover; "Old King Cole" which was humorously sung by young John Plaisted; The Sweetheart of Camden, Ginetie Perlin, sang "Remember Pearl Harbor."

The opening section of Camden's rubber salvage drive ended at midnight tonight and the results up to this writing have been most unsatisfactory. Chairman Percy Keller reports only five pounds per capita turned in where 10 pounds was set as the minimum. The final drive deadline is set at July 10. Camden must maintain its fine record of previous patriotic campaigns. The need for scrap rubber is acute.

Car Saving Clubs

State Director Moran Makes What Appears a Feasible Suggestion

Formation of car saving clubs in which four or more persons ride to and from work will be a requirement for supplemental rations under the new coupon plan for gasoline rationing which goes into effect July 22, Edward C. Moran, Jr., State O.P.A. Director said.

Registration for basic "A" books under the new plan will be held at public schools July 9, 10, and 11 and applications for supplemental rations must be made from local rationing boards.

Signatures of club members must appear on any application for supplemental rations before it will be considered by local rationing boards, Moran said.

"Car sharing to make one car do the work of four has become an integral part of the new coupon plan," Moran said, urging motorists to begin at once to form such clubs "to avoid confusion and inconvenience after the plan goes into effect."

Mass., arrived Monday for a visit with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Wooster.

Stanley-Crockett

The Tenant's Harbor Baptist Church Scene Of Pretty June Nuptials

A wedding of interest to many in Maine and Massachusetts took place Saturday when Miss Christina Crockett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Crockett, became the bride of Arnold White Stanley, at the Baptist Church in Tenant's Harbor. Rev. Byrd Springer performed the double ring ceremony and a reception followed in the vestry.

White satin with a snug bodice, long sleeves and a full skirt with long train, was worn by the bride. Rose point lace bordered the tucked sweetheart neckline. Her tulle veil was of finger-tip length with stand-up coronet of tulle and seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and pink sweet peas.

Mrs. Charles Morris of Tenant's Harbor, the former Katherine Crockett, sister of the bride, was her matron of honor. She wore pink taffeta and a matching shoulder length veil. She carried rose color carnations, white sweet peas and rope snapdragons. Mrs. Ruth C. Shepard of Franklin, N. H., sister of the bride, and Miss Aina Anderson of Thomaston, were bridesmaids. They were gowned in blue chiffon and lace, with matching shoulder length veils. They carried bouquets of pink carnations and blue larkspur.

Four-year-old Donna May Morris and Rosamond Shepard, nieces of the bride, were flower girls and five-year-old Ruth Ann Shepard was train bearer. They wore white dresses and pink accessories. The bride's mother was in soldier blue chiffon and lace, with white accessories and a corsage of white roses and pink sweet peas. The bridegroom's mother was in dusty pink chiffon and lace, with white accessories and white roses and pink sweet peas.

Norman Stanley of Whittinsville, Mass., the groom's brother, was best man, and the ushers, headed by John Shepard of Franklin, N. H., the bride's brother-in-law, included Charles Morris, the bride's brother-in-law, Clyde Stanley and Dwyall Stanley, the groom's brothers, all of Tenant's Harbor.

Mrs. Mabel Wilson layed the Wedding Marches and accompanied Mrs. Lee Andrews who sang "Oh, Promise Me" and "The Sunshine of Your Smile."

The church and vestry were beautifully decorated under the supervision of Mrs. Mae Cant, assisted by Mrs. Lewis Barter and Mrs. Allen Connaway. The altar was banked with evergreens and large baskets of white daisies and lupin. The wedding cake was served in individual wedding boxes wrapped in pastel colored ribbon. The bride's cake and wedding cake were attractively arranged in the vestry by Mrs. Clayton Hunnewell and Mrs. Fannie Morris. Mrs. Florence Cook and Mrs. Lillian Stanley supervised the serving of the refreshments by the 1942 graduates of the Home Economics School.

The bride is a graduate of East Douglas Memorial High School and Framingham Teachers' College and has done graduate work at the University of Maine. She is employed as instructor of Home Economics at Grace Institute, Tenant's Harbor.

The groom was formerly employed in the Whiting Machine Works, Whittinsville, Mass., and is now employed at the General Electric, Lynn, Mass.

The bridal couple will make their home at 62 Franklin street, Lynn.

Mrs. Robert C. Jewell, who has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Leach, Broadway, left Saturday for Greenwich, where she expects to remain for the next two months.

Many unsightly places, dear gardeners of Rockland, will be lovely spots if covered during the season by annual vines of great variety to be had for the purchase of seeds or plants. Residents of this section give little attention to the cypress vine and its flowers are lovely too.

Consolidating the three Federal bureaus that deal with information directly of war events certainly will please all; and the dreadful conflicting and unwarranted statements that seeped in to news from what have you will at least be less pregnant to censor. And who but Elmer Davis could do this very thing for he certainly knows what this war is reaching for and what are the answers thus far. It is hoped this really wise choice of Mr. Davis will be given freedom of his clear understanding and no censor put on his work.

Blankets From Maine
A short while ago, the Quartermaster Corps of the U. S. Army began arrangements to order 9,500,000 woolen blankets. Now First Corps Area Headquarters announces that 1,000,000 of these orders will be placed in New England-350,000 of the 1,000,000 in Maine.

This is good news. The Pine Tree State's woolen industry is by no means one of its largest; but it is among the most efficient. The order is helpful, and it will be ably filled.

A considerable expansion in the courier and cargo services performed for military and war-production agencies by the Civil Air Patrols, which now include more than 40,000 private pilots throughout the country, is forecast in the latest C.A.P. bulletin.

Officials point out that light planes are the sole untapped transportation medium. The C. A. P. units, they say, have reached a point in training where they can perform such service with safety. A light plane takes no more gasoline and less rubber than a private car and can transport loads up to several hundred pounds.

The services of such planes would compare with the work of big transport ships as pick-up and light-load trucks compare with railroads and other surface transportation.

The Garden Club

Varies Its Meeting With a Walk Through Lindsey Grove

Mrs. Frank A. Tirrell, Jr., acted as hostess to the Rockland Garden Club at her home on Beech street the past week.

Mrs. J. Albert Jameson, president, gave an interesting outline of the annual Garden Federation meeting which took place recently in Portland. Mrs. E. Stewart Orbeton reported on her trip to the National Convention which was held in Philadelphia.

The club was much pleased to learn from Mrs. Jameson that it had received two recent water color paintings of birds, the cardinal and bluejay, by Roger Torrey Peterson. These gifts were presented by John H. Baker, executive director of the Audubon Society of which Mr. Peterson is a staff member. It was voted to donate these paintings to the Rockland Public Library.

The president announced that "Gleaning" would be the subject for the next meeting, July 14, at Masonic Temple.

At the close of the business session, Mrs. George Smith, conservation chairman, led the club members on an instructive walk through Lindsey Grove. As the party hiked along Mrs. Smith described, in an interesting manner, the various shrubs, trees and bushes along the trail. She gave a short description of each tree and shrub, which as a result of her interest, have been neatly labeled. An individual spot of this sort with nature's own creation is a great asset to the Rockland Garden Club. All Rockland nature lovers have a great deal in store for them if they have not visited Lindsey Grove Nature Trail, which is part of the Rose estate at the top of Summer street.

Educational Club

County Attorney Burgess and Rev. Melvin H. Dorr Speakers At Picnic

The Woman's Educational Club enjoyed its first picnic of the season Friday as guest of Mrs. E. M. Lawrence at her home in Rockport. There was a very large attendance. The afternoon meeting, opened by Mrs. Lawrence, was devoted to verses from the Bible and current events by members.

County Attorney Stuart C. Burgess gave an interesting talk on "Criminal Law" and brought out pertinent points. He gave the origin of criminal law and traced the English law to the present day statutes. He explained felonies and misdemeanors and gave illustrations denoting the various differences. The theories of guilt and innocence were given and the speaker made comparisons between the English and American procedure. Explained the functions and nature of the Grand Jury, its duties and the several methods of bringing a respondent before the Bar of Justice. He related some experiences in investigating and preparation of cases. An open forum followed.

Mrs. Lawrence read a poem entitled "The Dangerous Car." Rev. Melvin H. Dorr of the Camden Baptist Church took as his subject, "What Is Wrong with the World?" He gave quotations from the Bible and stated that in his opinion, if the people of the world were not living so much for self, there would be less greed and the world would be happy and more peaceful.

Mrs. Mary Perry Rich presided at the evening meeting. Box lunch was enjoyed, supplemented by coffee served by the hostess, Ralph Ketchum of Augusta, assistant to Mr. Conant, head of the Maine Liquor Commission, spoke of the establishment of liquor stores in Maine and enforcement of the liquor laws. An open forum followed.

The next picnic will be July 10 at the home of Minnie Miles, Ocean street.

Married Fifty Years

South Hope Couple Assisted By Friends In Celebrating the Event

Mr. and Mrs. David C. Hemenway of South Hope celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Winnie Pushaw and Mrs. Fannie Howard of South Hope assisted Mrs. James Dorman of East Union in serving refreshments which included a delicious wedding cake made by Mrs. Leland Hemenway of Newton Centre.

A short musical program was enjoyed during the afternoon with Mrs. Ralph Robbins at the piano. Mr. Hemenway was born in Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Hemenway and is now in his 80th year. Mrs. Hemenway, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Oxten, Lincolnville was born 68 years ago.

They were married June 28, 1892 and have made South Hope their home 49 of their 50 years of married life.

They have one daughter, Mrs. James Dorman, East Union and one son Professor Leland D. Hemenway of the Simmons College faculty.

CLARA SIMMONS GUPPILL

Death came Sunday to one of Rockland's older citizens in the person of Clara Elvareta (Simmons) Guppill, 86. Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. today at the Russell funeral home, Dr. John Smith Lowe officiating. The bearers will be Woodbury L. Richards, Herbert E. Simmons, Douglass Bissbee and John M. Richardson. Interment will be in Acorn cemetery.

Deceased was born in Rockland in August, 1856, daughter of the late James and Nancy Simmons. She was educated in the city schools, and in 1877 became the wife of Robert C. Guppill. Of this union came four children, Eva, Anna, Fremont Simmons, a major, retired in the U. S. Army, and Arthur Burgess Guppill, Inspector of Public Buildings, Malden, Mass., the brothers surviving. In addition Mrs. Guppill is survived by a brother, Isaac B. Simmons of this city. The final year of Mrs. Guppill's life was most happily spent as a resident member of Rockland's Home for Aged Women.

REALM OF Music.

by Gladys St. Clair Heistad

Dorothy Maynor has been visiting St. Helena, Island off the coast of South Carolina which is inhabited entirely by Negroes. Since the music and culture there have been little touched by modern civilization, she hopes to find new material for next season's programs. It is said that Miss Maynor resents her diminutive stature—she is only four feet nine inches in height—yet she is always an impressively modest artist. One thing often quoted about her is that she always expresses the wish after each concert that she had sung better.

When Miss Maynor sang in Worcester a while back, curiosity was aroused when it was noted that she sank her teeth into a juicy red apple before appearing on the stage to begin each group. Many singers drink pineapple juice before singing—it is soothing and relaxing to the throat. I recall that I read a long time ago that Jeritza had several cans of pineapple juice before she was to appear either in opera or concert—that must have been before the pineapple juice itself appeared in cans—for she drank the juice only, and the slices of fruit itself were eagerly devoured by stage hands or chorus members.

Serge Jaroff, leader of the famous Don Cossacks, is another who deeply resents his diminutive stature. Once asked through an interpreter how tall he was, he replied that although he was nearer five he wished he were 10 feet tall. As some of the Cossacks run well up to and beyond six feet, one can imagine how tiny Jaroff appears.

The latest copy of the Peabody Bulletin (Peabody Conservatory of Music, Baltimore) is at hand, packed with interesting reading of varied form, from articles pertaining to music education and performance to notes about the student body and alumni. One article is of particular interest—to me at least who finds so much of worth and interest in the phase of music in the public schools. Written by Ernest G. Hesser, newly appointed director of Music Education, Baltimore Public Schools, it is entitled Trends in Music Education. I will quote only the paragraphs which may be applied to any of the public schools:

"Since both the desire and ability to express one's self in song are well-nigh universal, singing naturally occupies the first and the largest place in the American school music program. It is an activity adapted to all ages, from the kindergarten through the high school. At every grade level, therefore, the schools must stress the fundamentals of good singing—free vocal production, singing in tune, good enunciation, interpretation. In the elementary grades, the so-called monotone must be taught to use his singing voice; tonal memory must be strengthened; the rhythmic sense developed; ideals of tone-quality established. During adolescence, the maturing, changing voice must be cared for, and the awakening emotional life guided through the singing of carefully chosen selections. And in the high school the newly matured voices must be conscientiously protected against undue strain."

"The schools must make it their business to include in the material selected for their classroom and chorus singing, a cumulative list of songs to be memorized by the pupils. Such a list should include American patriotic songs, fun songs, rounds, Foster songs, favorite ballads, folk-songs and the like. "It is significant that school music is being thought of in terms of character education. In this field it finds full justification, for being largely a group activity it affords daily exercise of co-operation and the subordination of self for the good of the whole. Self-discipline of the highest order is demanded of the little child, be he a soloist or a member of an ensemble; persistence, patience, self-control. American public education is endeavoring to break down the barriers between school life and life outside the school walls. For the general student body, the emphasis is therefore upon music as a means of self-expression and recreation rather than upon the formal mastery of theory and techniques. And, finally, every effort is put forth to make music functional in school and out; and to set the stage and provide the stimulus to effect a carry-over into adult life."

Peabody Conservatory and Johns Hopkins University combined to observe the 100th anniversary of the birth of Sidney Lanier, whose "Trio the Woods My Master Went" will ever remain a loved song of us all. The article giving a detailed account of the observance included a brief resume of Lanier's life, particularly after he came to Baltimore. It was 69 years ago that Sidney Lanier closed his desk in the office of his father's law firm in Macon, Ga. When he left Macon he was determined to seek a musical career in the North, but stopping off in Baltimore he struck up a friendship with Asa Hamerik, who was at that time director of the Peabody Conservatory. Hamerik heard Lanier play several of his own compositions of the flute, and was so impressed by the fine musicianship of the young man that the place of first flutist in the Peabody Symphony Orchestra was offered him. Thus it was that the poet-musician, equipped with little more than some steel pens and a Boehm flute, settled in a rented room on Centre street, just under the towering back walls of the Peabody Conservatory. Lonely, with a light purse and a poor constitution, but with a determined ambition, Lanier gave voice to the songs so long suppressed. The hours between Peabody rehearsals and concerts, when his flute was silent, were spent in the production of musical and literary compositions. Lanier became very popular in Baltimore and his had an important place in the cultural development of the city.

Leon Zawisza who has spent several Summer seasons in Rockport, and who has been for the past three years concert master of the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, has been inducted into service (May 16) and is at Keesler Field, Miss. His address is: Pvt. Leon Zawisza, 592d T.S.S., Flight 338 E, Keesler Field, Miss. He was born in Poland, has a new and strenuous life, and qualified for air corps, to study to be a radio technician for 22 weeks.

The musical world has suffered a great loss in the death of Emanuel Feuermann, one of the most famous cellists of today. An untimely death, too, as this fine musician was only 39 years old, perhaps entering upon the greatest years of his life. He had left Germany as an exile through the Hitler regime and taken out his first citizenship papers in this country in 1939. His American debut was made in Carnegie Hall on Jan. 2, 1936, when he played the Haydn D Major Concerto with the Philadelphia Orchestra under Bruno Walter.

Toscha Seidel, violinist, remembered as a prodigy who appeared at one of the Maine Music Festivals several years ago, has enlisted in the U. S. Navy on the West Coast. Before he could appear as soloist on the radio program of the San Diego training station he had to have his long black hair cropped to conform with Navy regulations.

PITCHER PLANT

[For The Courier-Gazette]

This plant is a degenerate that haunts the bogs of many a state. As if it had a human mind. Instead of feeding on the soil by its roots, it feeds on the life of the human mind. On other forms of life it preys. And many a true creature slays. Not by its work but by its wit. It lives, herbage, hypocrite. It makes its every leaf a trap. To cause its victim's last mishap. Attracted by its carol, small and sweet, the unsuspecting soul is lured. Some helpless insect there is doomed. It can't escape, it's drowned, consumed.

This crafty, fair, carnivorous plant, it surely shows a human hand. Jamaica, Vt. Allison M. Watts

EARLY MORN
[For The Courier-Gazette]
The morn is awake from its slumber. All fresh with glistening dew. Ready to face another day. And start its tasks anew. Awakened by the call of the robin. And the gentle wind through the trees. And so many, many other things. The brook, the birds and the bees. Remembrance after night's forgetting. Comes to us whether sad or gay. But the golden sunlit morn. Seems to banish the clouds away. There are things that try to cheer us. Like the song of a dear little bird. And the fluttering around of a butterfly. Seems like a kindly word. E. S. B.

THE GEORGES RIVER

[For The Courier-Gazette]

Beautiful river, so silvery bright, Scattering mists out of shadowy dawn. Glistening with pearls in beauty bright. Waiting then gently into the morn. Wondrous river, delight you bring: As onward you travel your tireless way. The joy of living, the freshness of spring. Gliding serenely into the day. Life-giving river, your beauties to me Grow and reflect the day's shadow. Bearing you bark gaily out to the sea. Carrying her tranquilly into the night. Some day I, too, shall sail over the bar. Bear me, sweet river, as softly to Carry me straight to that beacon afar. Straight to my haven, my loved ones, and Thee. Mary E. L. Taylor

FOR HITLER

Did e'er compassion dew thy pillow When you're hurling bitter crimes? Will a deeper malediction Bedrench your day's intertwine. In crashing fear and hurts sublime. To fill your morrows with darkness And your days with bitter pain. This is what I ask for Hitler, Will this prayer be in vain? K. S. F.

WASHINGTON—AND YOU

By Margaret Chase Smith

Washington, June 26 — There isn't any way to get a full list of the men from any territory now in the armed forces. A weekly editor wrote that he wished to print such a list and that while he could get the names of drafted men from the local draft board, he could not get names of enlisted men.

I took this up with the Office of The Adjutant General here and was told that there is no way to run down the list of enlisted men from a given locality. They know the number from each State but have no list by localities since the list is alphabetical. The editor wanted to print an Honor Roll of all men from the area covered by its circulation.

Inquiries have come to me asking if girls under 18 will be employed by the Government here, and the answer is "No." However, those interested in employment may write to the Manager of the First Civil Service District, Boston, and ask if local changes or exceptions will be made in lowering the age limit of 18 years.

The demand for clerks in Government departments is so great that the Civil Service is permitting employment of girls 16 years of age if they are within commuting distance of Washington, that is, 50 miles. The Government will not be responsible for bringing the girls to Washington. Typewriters are hard to get I discovered when a Maine hospital tried to buy one. New typewriters are all reserved for Government work; second-hand typewriters may be had for essential civilian work. There was no place on the application form which showed hospitals entitled to typewriters, even second-hand ones. I took this up with E. C. Moran, Jr., Maine's Price Administration Director, and asked him to send the special application form for a second-hand typewriter.

From a Fairfield constituent comes a complaint about proposals to reduce rail service to Fairfield and begin motor truck service last at a time when tires and gasoline are being more strictly rationed. Citizens of this area fear this may be the first step toward elimination of the railroad.

The Kittredge Case

Former Rockland Man Is To Have a Hearing In Washington

The hearing of the Nominations subcommittee of the Senate Appropriations Committee on the nomination of Scott Kittredge to be Maine chief for Office of Government Reports probably will be held soon, date is not set, but will be at the convenience of Kittredge, says a Washington special. Senator McKellar, chairman of the subcommittee, is said to be anxious to clean up work at the end of the fiscal year approaches and Congress looks toward a Summer recess.

Kittredge who has been acting in the O.G.R. Maine office, was nominated by the O.G.R. Headquarters in Washington. It is understood his appointment originally stems back to Maine National Committee member F. Harold Dubord. The nomination has been objected to by Maine National Democratic Committee member Fred H. Lancaster and Louis J. Brann, nominee on the Democratic ticket for Congress from the First District.

McKellar is represented as desirous of having the whole controversy before the subcommittee, with Kittredge given opportunity to express himself, and the objectors asked for their reasons.

Representative Drewry of Virginia, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee (made up of one congressman from each State) delegation having Democrats in the House, says today he expected the Democrats would pick up 10 more seats in this year's election and that Brann would be one of them. Optimism over Brann's chances was attributed to his "never having been defeated in his own district," despite some defeats in statewide elections. Apparently Democrats here are not aware that Brann is not running in his own district, his former home but in the First District.

Appleton Ridge

Reading, Mass., June 24

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:— I think the following items will be of interest to the North Knox residents and those of Appleton especially.

"Arnold W. Pitman a graduate of the Appleton High School Class 1937 and the University of Maine Class 1942 B. S. in Horticulture. He was the first graduate of the Appleton High School to complete a full college course. He was selected by the U. of M. to represent the State of Maine in an extension course in Philadelphia recently. I do not find any move here for an "Anti-Feather" law which would forbid use of bird plumage in fish lures. A petition signed by many persons in the Second District was transmitted to me by Gerry Wade, Hatchery Superintendent in the Inland Fisheries and Game Department of Maine. Signers of the petition said they opposed any such legislation, which is proposed by the Audubon Society, because it would be unfair to the fisherman of the country and the need for preservation of birds. The petition said that wild life in America is not being willfully destroyed to get feathers for fish lures and wildlife is adequately protected by fish and game laws which prohibit taking birds out of season.

I understand this legislation was brought to an issue in New York State last year and was defeated. I have discussed it with officials of the Interior Department's Fish and Wildlife Service.

Shortage of weight in sacks of Maine potatoes is at issue in the court here. A local wholesale produce firm attributes the shortage to shrinkage in transit and storage. The shortage amounted to as much as three pounds in each of 100 sacks each labeled 100 pounds. The firm in trouble complains that the local weights and measures law does not make proper provision for shrinkage as natural and unavoidable. The firm wants the law amended to provide proper tolerances for shrinkage, a situation long recognized by the trade. The sacks in question were packed and sewn by the shippers and not opened by the local produce firm before being turned over to retailers. The firm said that they do not sell the sacks as hundred pounds of potatoes but just as sacks.

The firm says the idea that the sacks were weighed before being shipped from Maine saying the shortages are not large enough to indicate any dishonesty on the part of the shippers.

The firm wants a law which permits the establishment of tolerances, rather than having the precise poundage set down inflexibly in law.

Last To Be Called

But Married Men Cannot Count Upon Permanent Deferment

Draft Headquarters announced Wednesday that generally speaking, married men with children would be the last to be called into service, but emphasized that they could count upon no permanent deferment. Selective Service officials established four broad categories to govern the order in which men shall be called:

"Category One. Registrants otherwise qualified for military service who have no bona-fide financial dependents. "Category Two. Registrants otherwise qualified for military service who are maintaining a bona-fide family relationship in their homes and who were married prior to Dec. 8, 1941, and at a time when induction was not imminent. "Category Three. Registrants otherwise qualified for military service who are maintaining a bona-fide family relationship in their homes and who were married prior to Dec. 8, 1941, at a time when induction was not imminent. "Category Four. Registrants otherwise qualified for military service who have wives and children or children alone, with whom they maintain a bona-fide family relationship in their homes who were married prior to Dec. 8, 1941, at a time when induction was not imminent."

After setting forth these classifications the Selective Service system added that it wished to make it "emphatic that they do not provide for the permanent deferment of men with dependents but rather provide that men with dependents with dependents will be inducted."

Moreover, it appeared that in some cases married men might still be called ahead of others, if such action were necessary to fill draft calls on time. The announcement emphasized that the national interest requires that all calls to meet the manpower requirements of the armed forces be filled on schedule but that insofar as was practical in meeting these calls, the category system should be followed.

PORTLAND HEAD LIGHT

[For The Courier-Gazette]

Said Washington, that there be light to guide the ships at sea.

And let it shine all through the night. For them unfailingly.

So since his day the lamp he lit year after year has spread its welcome beams and benefit.

Alas, it shines no more.

God grant that soon its rays by night may shine no more to cease.

Upon a world of love alight.

With just and lasting peace.

PORTLAND HEAD

Portland Head still hanging on. Hello, everybody!

Miss Edna Hilt of Thomaston, enjoying a vacation was a recent caller on F. O. Hilt and family.

The Hilt and Mrs. Sterling were in Portland Tuesday afternoon and before returning home motored to a wayside market.

The Sterlings and Mrs. Hilt called Wednesday afternoon on Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dow Fessenden street and Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Sterling, Jr. and daughter Ann Walker of Derrington street, Portland.

Another anniversary day Wednesday when the Sterlings celebrated quietly their 30th wedding anniversary. Relatives and friends kept them busy answering phone calls and extending congratulations.

Mrs. Sterling was presented a large bouquet of peonies with best wishes. If all goes well the crowd expects a great big celebration next 24th of June.

From Guther Field, Montgomery, Alabama, comes word that John S. Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Robinson, Brooks, N. Y., and grandson of Mrs. S. N. Robinson, St. George, has been promoted to First Lieutenant in the Army Air Corps. Jack is a flight instructor at the Basic Flying School. He graduated from Cape Canaveral High, attended Portland Junior College and received his first flight training at Portland Airport. He made his home with F. O. Hilt and family at Portland Head from the time he entered Cape Elizabeth high school until he joined the Army Air Corps.

CAPE NEDDICK

Dear Courier-Gazette friends:

The news of the Nubble from Easter to Decoration Day: On Good Friday Mr. Hammond came with the new beach wagon which brought Charles Gardner to replace him.

Guests during this time were Miss Mary E. Brown of Somerville and Chandler O. Dazell of Portsmouth, N. H., Blanche Leonard of Providence; Floreston G. Alley of Jonesport; Sarah E. McIntyre of Ardley, Pa.; A. S. Pearson of Willow Grove, Pa.; and the following party from Bath, Misses Eunice G. Melard, Ruth A. Reed, Wilson F. Fitzgerald, Malcolm J. Miller; Mrs. Val Pierce and son Bruce of Kittery and Mrs. Carrie E. Carlisle of Georgetown.

Alfred E. Cooper arrived May 28 from Washington, D. C. to pass his vacation with us. We were glad to welcome him again to the Nubble. Mr. and Mrs. Leslie A. Cole came May 30 from Cambridge and brought with them Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Cooper of Arlington and Mrs. Cole's son William B. Wilkins and his wife, former Miss Alice Craft of Ayer, Mass. They are residing in Shirley, Mass.

Plenty of fishing was enjoyed over the week-end and plenty of loveliness. A jolly time was spent and Alfred was pleased with his birthday cake trimmed in green and chocolate. Probably had more sugar in it than will be in any other cake here during the duration.

Uncomfortable Kitty

Didn't Enjoy Her Motor Trip According To Mrs. Cuddy

New Haven, Conn., June 24

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

If pets are going to be given sedatives in case of an air raid, I strongly recommend the same for feline hitch-hikers. Last week my nephew, Mr. S., located at Fort Worth, Texas, having occasion to motor to Oklahoma was driving alone, and when he needed to use his brake it would not work.

Well, he pumped it a couple of times with vengeance and finally it worked. He drove about three miles and stopped at a filling station to put in oil. Immediately after lifting the hood a terrified, full grown cat, looking as though it was about to emit one of those sustained, high notes, sallied forth and sought a hiding place, pronto.

Evidently it had crawled up underneath and was under the brake pedal. Mr. S. said if he hadn't discovered it when he did the poor thing would have been roasted. The hair was off its back and it is a miracle there was any left on it. Anyhow, it seemed quite anxious to change seats after its hair-raising ride in a nice, warm, airless bus in which not a breath was stirring.

THUMBS UP FOR CHINA!

These three little Chinese boys give the ancient Chinese greeting of good cheer familiar to all Americans who visit China. Centuries old this gesture is accompanied by the Chinese salutation, "Ding Kwa Kwa," which the British have aptly translated into their war-time greeting, "Are we downhearted? No!" The Chinese, too, meet every bombardment, every battle, every trying moment with this slogan of determination and courage to smash aggression . . . and they do it with a smile.

Some Highlights of Rotary International Convention Last Week

Delegates representing 5,100 Rotary clubs in some 50 countries of the world, at the final session of the 33rd annual convention of Rotary International, elected Don Fernando Carbajal of Lima, Peru, Rotary president for the year beginning July 1. Mr. Carbajal is vice-president of the Peruvian Telephone Company in Lima and is former State Engineer of Peru.

In addition to six directors from North America, the following Rotarians were elected to the board of directors of Rotary International for 1942-43: P. H. W. Almy, Torquay, England; Richard R. Currie, Johannesburg, Union of South Africa; Dr. Manuel Gallego, Havana, Cuba; Don Armando Hamel, Santiago, Chile; Francis A. Kettaneh, Beyrouth, Lebanon; and C. J. Steiger, Zurich, Switzerland.

"Despite wartime conditions in practically every country in which Rotary clubs are located," said Tom J. Davis of Butte, Mont., president of Rotary International for 1941-42, "Rotary has progressed this year in numbers and in strength. New Rotary clubs have been organized not only in all of the countries of the Americas, but in Australia, India, Ceylon, England, Wales, and Iceland, at the rate of more than two new clubs each week of the year."

The 7,000 Rotarians and members of their families in attendance at the convention listened to a 4-day program of addresses by prominent speakers from many countries of the world, headed by His Excellency, the Earl of Athlone, Governor General of Canada, and participated in numerous discussion meetings which were all keyed to the main convention theme of intensifying each Rotary club's program of wartime service to its community and to its country.

Highspots in the entertainment program of the convention were "Toronto's Musical Welcome to Rotary" with a concert by the Toronto Symphony Orchestra conducted by Sir Ernest MacMillan, the ten-piano ensemble of Toronto's Manifesto Group conducted by Max Mona Bates, and Gracie Fields, famous British singing comedienne, and a spectacular ice carnival featuring many of North America's finest skaters.

The 34th annual convention of Rotary International will be held in Philadelphia, June 13-18, 1943.
